MILITARY DICTATE?

London Believes Junkers Have Regained Their Dominance In Berlin

(American Wireless To Reuters)
Washington, October 21.—(Received at French Wireless Station).—The text of the Czecho-Slovak declaration of independence which was issued in Paris has been handed to President Wilson. It is, in part, as follows:

(French Wireless)
Lyons direct, October 21.—New peace demonstrations in which not only the laboring classes but also important elements of the bourgeoisie took part occurred on Saturday in Berlin before the Reichstag.

(Reuters Agency War Service)
Amsterdam, October 20.—A message from Berlin forecasts that the German reply to President Wilson will take into account the expectations of the Entente of unacceptable conditions for the evacuation, which therefore are not fit for discussion. Germany, however, is ready to find a basis for further discussion.

U-Boats Ordered Back To Bases?
Madrid, October 20.—The newspaper states that Germany has ordered Spain that the German Admiralty has ordered submarines to return to their bases immediately.

Amsterdam, October 20.—It is reported that the German reply to President Wilson was handed to the Swiss Minister in Berlin yesterday evening and that in it Germany declares her willingness provisionally to stop submarine warfare in order to advance peace.

Amsterdam, October 20.—A message from Berlin states that the reply to President Wilson has been delayed owing to differences of opinion at the last moment. Forecasts of the reply published in Berlin declare that it will protest very strongly against the accusations of cruelty, justify submarine warfare as a reprisal for the starvation blockade and indicate that Germany will not submit to a peace destructive to her future.

Large Concessions Likely
Paris, October 20.—The German answer to President Wilson was expected to be sent yesterday. Alterations will be made in the reply dictated chiefly by military considerations and large concessions are likely, the demand for guarantees limiting their actual effect.

As regards the peace move attention in Paris has been attracted to the reappearance of Prince Bulow's name. The Junkers play their last diplomatic card.

Military Hold Control
London, October 21.—The newspapers anticipate that the German reply will show a distinct hardening in tone as compared with what it was expected to be a few days ago. They believe the delay in the reply is due to a struggle by the military party to reassert their ascendancy, in which they have been successful. They emphasize that the enemy must be mistaken if he thinks the Allied peoples have been weakened by the talk of peace. On the contrary they are more resolute than ever to tolerate no compromise.

In this connection President Wilson's crushing reply to Austria, which is described as the death blow to the Dual Monarchy, is held up as a warning to Germany of the danger she incurs if she delays to accept the terms now offered.

Approve Reply To Austria
New York, October 20.—The newspapers and politicians warmly approve President Wilson's reply to Austria-Hungary.

Senator Hitchcock the Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, declared that it voiced the highest expectations not only of the American people but also of the representatives of the oppressed nationalities in Austria-Hungary.

Czecho-Slovak Nation Declares Independence From Austria-Hungary

New Federalisation Merely A Cloak For Ancient Hapsburg Oppression, Says Ringing Document Made Public In Washington

(American Wireless To Reuters)
Washington, October 19.—(Received at French Wireless Station).—The text of the Czecho-Slovak declaration of independence which was issued in Paris has been handed to President Wilson. It is, in part, as follows:

"The declaration of independence of the Czecho-Slovak Nation by its provisional government:

"At this grave moment when the Hohenzollerns are offering peace in order to stop the victorious advance of the Allied nations and to prevent the dismemberment of Austria-Hungary and Turkey and when the Hapsburgs are promising the federalisation of the Empire and autonomy to the dissatisfied nationals committed to their rule, we, the Czecho-Slovak National Council, recognised by the Allies and American governments as the provisional government of the Czecho-Slovak state, a nation in complete accord with the declarations of the Czech deputies made in Prague on January 6, 1916; and realising that federalisation and more autonomy mean nothing under a Hapsburg dynasty, do hereby make and declare this our declaration of independence.

"Hapsburg Mock-Federation"
"We do this because of our belief that no people should be forced to live under a sovereignty they do not recognise and because of our knowledge and conviction that our nation cannot freely develop in a Hapsburg mock-federation, which is only a new form of the system of oppression under which we have suffered for the last 400 years.

"We consider freedom to be the first requisite for a federalisation and believe that the free nations of Central and Eastern Europe may easily federalise if they find it necessary.

"We make this declaration on the basis of our historical and natural rights.

"We have been an independent state since the seventh century; in 1526, as an independent state consisting of Bohemia and Moravia and Silesia, we joined with Austria and Hungary in a defensive union against the Turkish danger.

"We have not voluntarily wholly surrendered our rights as an independent state in this confederation.

"The Hapsburgs broke their compact with our nation by illegally transgressing our rights and violating the constitution of our state which they had pledged themselves to uphold and we therefore refuse to remain a part of Austria-Hungary in any form.

Want Union With Bohemia

"We claim the right of Bohemia to be united with her Slovak brethren of Slovakia, once a part of our national body, later torn from our national body and 50 years ago incorporated in the Hungarian state of the Magyars, who, by their unappealable violence and ruthless oppression of their subject races, have lost all moral and human right to rule anybody but themselves.

"The world knows the history of our struggle against the Hapsburg oppression which was systemised by the Austro-Hungarian dualistic compromises of 1867.

"This dualism is only a sham; it is a political conspiracy of the Germans and the Magyars against our own as well as the other Slav and Latin nations of the monarchy.

"The world knows the justice of our claims which the Hapsburgs themselves cannot deny.

"Franz Josef, in the most solemn manner, repeatedly recognised the independence of our nation. The Germans and Magyars opposed this recognition and Austria, bowing before the Pan-Germans, became a colony of Germany and, as her vanguard in the East, provoked the last Balkan conflict as well as the present world war, which was begun by the Hapsburgs alone, without the consent of the representatives of the people.

"We cannot and will not continue to live under the direct or indirect rule of the violators of Belgium, France and Serbia and the murderers of Russia and Rumania."

Karolyi Moves Disunion With Austria In Economic, Political And Military Affairs

(French Wireless)
Lyons direct, October 21.—A message from Budapest states that a Vienna newspaper reports that the Emperor-King is on the brink of famine, Hungary having stopped sending grain, Bohemia, refusing to deliver any foodstuffs and Poland having greatly reduced the amount of foodstuffs she was expected to export.

(Reuters Agency War Service)
Amsterdam, October 21.—A message from Budapest states that the Emperor-Karl will shortly announce the complete economic independence of Hungary, which will have its own army, diplomatic service, etc. The dynastic union with Austria will continue.

Amsterdam, October 20.—A message from Budapest states that after Count Tisza's speech the address of the King was read to the Diet. This declared that the result of the war endangered the Throne, adding that Hungary must be completely independent, the Hungarian troops, in view of the danger of invasion, must be brought back and the foreign troops in Hungary must be withdrawn.

Count Karolyi moved a resolution demanding disunion between Hungary and Austria in economic, military and political matters. He said that the secession was the funeral feast of the delegation because the public demanded an independent Hungary. He said that the foreign policy of the monarchy was responsible for the war by its ultimatum to Serbia and that Dr. Muehlon, formerly a director of Krupp, told him that the Austrian diplomats deliberated on the text of the ultimatum in the presence of the Kaiser, who declared that he would show the world he was not a puppet and would strike terror in the universe. The situation might have been saved in 1914 if Great Britain's proposal for a peaceable settlement had been accepted. Austria-Hungary might have concluded peace during the war times without number but preferred to follow Germany. There was a limit to the loyalty to the alliance.

London, October 20.—Reuters's agency learns that a meeting of the Southern Slav Committee in London, representing seven millions of people in Austria-Hungary, rejected the manifesto issued by the Emperor Karl on the 16th and emphasised their determination to sever every tie with the Hapsburgs.

'NEW EAST' TO SUSPEND PUBLICATION IN TOKIO

Another Magazine, Representing Japanese And American Interests, To Start

(Reuters Pacific Service)
Tokyo, October 21.—The New East, a magazine started in 1917 by British interests, announces that it will cease publication with the December number owing to lack of financial support.

American interests, however, announce that it will be replaced by a powerful magazine representing American and Japanese interest which will not neglect the British Allies in the Far East. The new magazine is promoted by Mr. Benjamin Fleisher and a number of bankers. It is known that only 30,000 shares will be offered to the public and the Directors announce that these have been oversubscribed twenty-five times.

The Servians have forced Bevan Pass, north of Aleksinat, occupied Sokobanja, west of Zrnichewatz, and reached Trestenek, on the south bank of the western Morava.

TEN-MILE RETREAT MADE IN FLANDERS AND NORTH FRANCE

Germans Going Back Steadily From Dutch Frontier To Below Scarpe

ON WIDER FRONT

Allied Lines Now Are Only Five Miles From Valenciennes

APPROACH GHENT

British Reach Outskirts Of Tournai, Hold All Of Denain

THE BATTLE SUMMED UP

The Germans have retreated an average of ten miles further in Flanders and almost an equal distance in Northern France. This brings the French and Belgians to within eight miles of Ghent and the British to the outskirts of Tournai and in Denain. Also it is only five miles from the Allied lines to Valenciennes. The retreat continues.

The British, French and Americans in the offensive south of the German retreat, that is, from north of Cambrai down to the Oise, are making a little more rapid progress, through the Germans are massing their reserves here to prevent the Allies from breaking through and catching the retreating forces in the north on the flank.

In the Oise bend the French have taken Ribemont and advanced roughly two miles.

The fierce battle along the American line on the Meuse continues without decision, though Paris predicts the German will have to retire.

(French Wireless)

Lyons direct, October 21, 10 p.m.—The pressure of the Allies, which they continue to exert despite the bad weather, is forcing the enemy to increase his movement of retreat.

The French and Belgian armies have reached the Zeebrugge Canal and the course of the River Lieve between the Dutch frontier and Ronseel.

Elsewhere the Allies are approaching the Escaut (Scheldt).

The British line has reached the outskirts of Tournai and the suburbs of Denain while they hold the line of the Selle as far as Harpre and have consolidated their positions 800 meters beyond Le Cateau. Between Le Cateau and the Oise the French troops have passed considerably beyond Wassigny and the Landrecies-Guise Road has apparently been reached.

It is the line along the upper valley of the Oise or, to be more exact, the rear positions of the Hindenburg Line which are being attacked on the front between the Serre and the Oise by the troops commanded by General Mangin and General Guillaumat, and, on their right, by General Gouraud's army.

East of Vouziers furious fighting continues. The progress made by the French and American troops is of the greatest importance and the enemy will be forced to retire his front north of Grandpre to bring it into line with the new positions held by the French troops on the right bank of the Aisne.

The Rosendaal correspondent of the Amsterdam newspaper Telegraaf makes the following report: Germans Retreating To Liege?

The German troops are still passing through Antwerp on their way to Liege. An enormous quantity of material has arrived. As indicating what the Germans expect, the correspondent mentions that many German soldiers are selling their personal effects. The joy caused by the victories of the Entente is very great, in some cases much greater among the German troops than among the Belgians.

inhabitants. A great many soldiers have been punished for having manifested their satisfaction too openly.

Where Enemy Plans To Stand (Reuter's Agency War Service)

London, October 21, 2:25 p.m.—The latest reliable news is that the evidence seems to show that the enemy will try to hold the line of the Derivation Canal from the Dutch frontier to the Lys at Peteghem, then the line of the Scheldt, the Forêt de Ralames, northwest of Valenciennes, and the Hunting Lys.

The British 2nd Army has reached the Scheldt northwest of Tournai and is approaching Forêt de Ralames. The French have captured a bridgehead over the Derivation Canal at Nevels, eight miles west by south of Ghent, and one over the Lys at Gramme.

Total Advance Thirty Miles

London, October 19.—Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig issues the following communique regarding the operations in Belgium:

The British, Belgian and French armies commanded by King Albert today developed the results of the last six days' offensive.

The Belgians occupied Zeebrugge and Heyst and stormed Bruges. Elsewhere the Belgians crossed the Bruges-Ghent Canal and their left has reached the Dutch frontier while their right is at Aeltre, half way between Bruges and Ghent.

The French troops carried Thilt and the adjoining high ground despite the stubborn resistance of the enemy, who endeavored to bar their way to the Lys. At the end of the day the French line had reached Hulleveinc and ran along the Lys to Gramme, Goltelin and Wleabeke.

The 2nd British Army has completely cleaned up Courtrai and has advanced six kilometers east of that town. Further south they have reached the Courtrai-Tournai Road and, although the enemy has destroyed all communications, they have advanced almost to the Scheldt.

Since the beginning of these operations the Flanders group of armies has advanced fifty kilometers on a front of sixty kilometers. The coast of Flanders has been completely liberated from the enemy and also the whole of western Flanders.

Advance At Le Cateau

London, October 19.—Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig reports this evening:

The Anglo-American forces this morning, operating in conjunction with the French between the Oise and Le Cateau, successfully renewed their advance.

We reached the west bank of the Sambre and Oise Canal northward of Oisy and obtained possession of the high ground westward of Catillon.

In its operations during the past three days in this sector Sir Henry Rawlinson's 4th Army has completed an advance from five to eight miles across difficult country which the enemy defended with tenacity. Having driven the enemy on the first day of their attack from his strong positions on the right bank of the river Selle, by determined and persistent fighting they have successfully cleared the whole of the high ground eastward of the line of that river, capturing many villages in the course of their advance with over 5,000 prisoners and a number of guns.

The enemy has commenced to withdraw northward of the Cambrail-Baval Road. We have occupied Saulx and progress has been made towards Denain from the south.

Northwards of the Senee Canal we have already entered Denain and reached Escudain and Somain.

On the left the 8th Division has taken Marchiennes and during the past ten days, in course of an advance of over eighteen miles, they have taken several hundreds of prisoners.

Further northwards we steadily continue to advance and have reached the general line Orchies, Cobléux, Bourghelles, Templeuve, southward of Roubaix, and Nechin.

Aviation.—Yesterday we shot down three hostile machines while two were driven down out of control. Two British machines are missing.

Despite a mist our night-flying machines dropped 3½ tons of bombs on railways and lines of communication. They all returned.

American Official Report

The American official communique issued this evening reports:

West of the Meuse there has been heavy infantry fighting at Loges Wood with heavy artillery and machine-gun firing elsewhere north of Verdun.

The American troops co-operating with the British north of Waasgny have reached the Sambre-Oise Canal. Seventeen enemy aeroplanes were shot down as the result of twenty-five combats yesterday.

The Belgian official communique issued this evening reports:

Our troops today continued to pursue the enemy. They occupied

Attack On River Selle

London, October 20.—Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig reports:

Early this morning we attacked the enemy's positions on the line of the river Selle northward of Le Cateau and crossed that river despite considerable opposition.

Further north our advance continued yesterday afternoon and evening. We completed the capture of Denain and reached the general line of Haveluy, Wandignies, Hamagne, Brillon and Beuvry. The resistance of the enemy is increasing on this front.

Enemy Repulsed On Oise

Paris, October 19.—The official communique issued this evening reports:

The enemy on the Oise front has been completely thrown back east of that river and the right wing of the 1st Army, continuing its pursuit between the Oise and La Fere, has captured Ribemont and Villers-le-Sec.

On the Serre front the 10th Army attacked the Hunting-Stellung between Pouilly and Sissonne marshes, pierced this powerful fortification on a front of five kilometers after shattering a stubborn resistance and advanced 1,200 meters, taking 1,000 prisoners. Counter-attacks delivered by the enemy west of Barenton Brook were repulsed with heavy loss.

The fighting was equally severe between Sissonne and Chateau Porchien. We made important progress by local attacks, reaching the Sissonne-La Salve Road and capturing several fortified works. East of Chateau Porchien we also attacked the Hunting-Stellung and captured the ridge north of Germalmont, taking 700 prisoners.

The battle in the region of Vouziers continued all day with the utmost desperation. On the hills east of the Aisne we captured Macquart Farm and Hill 193 and, east of Vandy, captured and passed beyond the village of Chetres, taking 400 prisoners and ten guns.

Numerous fights in the air took place between the Aisne and the Argonne, where the German aircraft was concentrated. Thirteen enemy machines were felled.

Complete Retreat Forced

London, October 20.—The British official communique regarding operations in Belgium, issued this evening, reports:

The Germans were forced to withdraw along the whole front and the Belgians are established along the Deynze-Eccloo canal, their left resting on the Dutch frontier.

Knesselaere, Aeltre, Abegem, Bellem and Ursel have been occupied. The French, despite the floods caused by the Germans, have crossed the Lys and established bridgeheads.

The British army, despite the strong resistance offered by the enemy and broken communications, have crossed the Lys on its whole front, its first reaching the outskirts of Peck.

The British have captured 6,209 prisoners and 169 guns in the actions which have taken place since 14th October.

Solismes Is Taken

London, October 20.—Reuter's agency learns that the British attack today has resulted in the recapture of Solismes and an advance of a mile eastwards of the river Selle on a front of ten miles.

A valuable advance was made today in Belgium where our line, resting on the Dutch frontier, runs straight down to Aelter, thence through Loutenhulle, Vynck, Gramme and Oessegem to the Lys Canal north of Oyghem.

Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig reports this evening:

In our attack this morning the British forced the passage of the river Selle between Le Cateau and Denain. Having captured the villages in the river valley and driven the enemy from Solismes, we fought our way up the slopes eastward of the Selle and established ourselves on the high ground overlooking Harpies valley. We encountered determined opposition, especially at Solismes and St. Python, overcame this opposition after hard fighting and repulsed a number of counter-attacks. This operation was carried out in heavy rain. We took 2,000 prisoners and some guns.

Our advanced troops are within two miles of Tournai and are in contact with the enemy eastward of the general line Denain, Bois-des-Eclusees, Landas, Mouchin and Marquain.

Attack In Rain

Reuter's correspondent at British headquarters reported today:

The attack of the 1st and 3rd British armies northeast of Le Cateau was launched in wet weather and over heavy and slippery ground but is progressing favorably.

Fires broke out afresh in Douai yesterday but were extinguished by our troops.

The German airmen are heavily bombing the captured towns.

The enemy is conducting his retreat skillfully with masses of covering troops ahead of the main forces and over heavy and slippery ground but is progressing favorably.

The Belgian official communique issued this evening reports:

We continued our pursuit of the enemy, hustling his rearwards. Our cavalry recently charged machine-guns, capturing prisoners with guns and machine-guns.

Towards the north our cavalry is advancing along the Dutch frontier. Southwards we are over twenty kilometers eastward of Bruges and are liberating numerous villages. Our troops are crossing the line Moerkerke, Maldegem, Ursel and Aeltre.

Considerable booty has been captured, including numerous guns in the coastal defenses, including the long-range gun used for the bombardment of Dunkirk, which was not damaged.

A German official communique reports:

We have evacuated Bruges, Thilt and Kortrijk.

On both sides of Vouziers the enemy has established himself on the east bank of the Aisne.

Violent Counter-Attack

Made Against French

Paris, October 20.—The official communique issued this afternoon reports:

Yesterday evening the enemy made two violent counter-attacks between the Serre and the Aisne, one in the region of Verneuil and the other north of St. Germain Mont. We repulsed them and took prisoners.

During the night the enemy vigorously reacted with his artillery and machine-guns at different points of the front.

The French official communique issued this evening reports:

We have extended our positions between the Oise and the Serre, crossed Chantred Brook eastward of Verneuil, and obtained a footing in the ridges west of Grand-Lup. We are maintaining possession of our gains despite violent counter-attacks.

We reached the outskirts of Perron and east of Vouziers and have made progress in the region of Handeves and Falaise, capturing twenty guns.

HAIG PRAISES AMERICANS

London, October 19.—Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig in a special despatch detailing the operations on the 27th and 30th American Divisions, which have been operating with the 4th British Army during the past three weeks, says that in the course of the fighting they displayed soldierly qualities of a high order and materially assisted in the success of our attack, especially in breaking the Hindenburg Line on September 29, when they fought with the utmost dash and bravery and captured Bellicourt and Nauroy. They have taken a number of prisoners.

Paris, October 20.—There has been a magnificent series of victories along the whole front from the Dutch frontier to the Meuse.

The Belgians took Bruges and Zeebrugge and the whole coast line up to the Dutch frontier and pushed beyond Bruges half way to Ghent.

The French are on the road to Ghent. Courtrai has been cleared by the British army who have also captured Denain. South of the river Selle the French 10th Army broke the Hunting Line on a width of over three miles.

Flags are flying in Paris in honor of the liberated towns of Northern France but there is little disposition to shout victory while the work of ejecting the Germans is still unfinished. France knows, as M. Clemenceau stated, that the battle continues and that the great problem of reconstructing what the Germans have destroyed is just beginning.

American Pressure Relentless Along Sector Of Verdun

Washington, October 21.—(Received at French Wireless Station).—General Pershing's communique for October 20 says:

North of Verdun during the heavy fighting of last week there was a constantly increasing number of German divisions. West of the Meuse our troops continued their pressure on the enemy. East of Bantheville in the course of local fighting the Bois des Rappes was captured with more than 100 prisoners. On the entire front north of Verdun there was heavy artillery and machine-gun firing. Several counter-attacks threw back the enemy with heavy losses.

Press despatches from northwest of Verdun say the American aviators along the Meuse are attracting considerable attention and giving the Allies offensive control of the air.

From east of Le Cateau the American forces fighting beside the British armies made a total advance of thirteen miles during the last six days.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, in a message to the commanding general of the American troops, said:

"I wish to express personally to all the officers and soldiers serving under your command my warm appreciation of the very valuable assistance and gallant services rendered through the operations of the 4th army. Called upon to attack positions of the greatest strength held by a determined enemy, all ranks of the 27th and 30th American divisions under your command displayed an energy, courage and determination which proved irresistible."

Northwest of Verdun in an all-American bombing expedition Friday American pursuit planes brought down 17 German machines. No Americans were lost.

GERMANS SACKED DOUAI BEFORE TAKING FLIGHT

Houses Destroyed, Churches Wrecked, Museum Looted
Of Its Pictures

(Reuter's Agency War Service)

Paris, October 20.—It is stated that the Germans have massed forty divisions on a front of sixty kilometers between the Oise and Le Cateau.

The Germans sacked Douai perhaps more completely than any other town. The contents of the houses were destroyed, many houses burned, all shop-windows broken, the streets strewn with furniture, two-thirds of the pictures in the Museum are missing, the stained-glass windows in the churches have been broken, the organ-pipes wrenched out and flattened and the sacred ornaments flung on the flagstones.

PAY BY CHECK

Paying by check is a simple, easy method of keeping track of every expenditure made from day to day.

The cancelled checks as returned to you each month by this bank are RECEIPTS, the stubs in your checkbook an accurate ACCOUNT of every dollar spent.

Even months from now you can go back to your checkbook and know at a glance to whom and for what you've paid out money.

If you pay cash there's always a chance of losing the money—in which case it's a dead loss. If you lose a check it's worthless to the finder—or to make it doubly sure you can easily order payment on it stopped.

Adopt the pay-by-check system in meeting personal and household bills. Saves time, trouble, worry and money for you.

An appeal on behalf of the British Red Cross Society

For the fourth year in succession the British Red Cross Society is compelled to appeal to all at Home and Overseas to continue to relieve the sufferings of the sick and wounded of the Forces of His Majesty and of his Allies in every part of the world.

The continuance of the marvellous successes of the Allies during the last few weeks in every theatre of the war, whilst filling us with hopes of a speedy victory and an early cessation of fighting, cannot fail to add enormously to the numbers requiring the ministrations of the Red Cross and must strengthen us in our determination that we, who have suffered so little from this devastating war, will do all in our power to alleviate the sufferings of those who have offered and have in so many cases given all for us.

I therefore make this appeal to the Shanghai community, not only to Britons but to Britain's Allies and Friends, confident that they will contribute generously to this the noblest cause the world has ever known.

A. G. MAJOR,

Honorary Treasurer,

British Red Cross Society.

BRITISH CONSULATE-GENERAL,

Shanghai, October 23rd, 1918.

SHANTUNG TERRORISED
BY BRIGAND RAIDERSBusiness Suspended in Many Cities At Rumors Of Bandits' Coming

China Press Correspondence Tianfu, Shantung, October 18.— Conditions in this part of the country are not at all hopeful. A reign of terror describes the situation as the people are living in constant fear of the brigands that infest the country.
It is generally the villages that are attacked but now the city of Feicheng has suffered; the official fled and some of the prominent citizens were taken and held for ransom. Hundreds of towns have suffered the same fate and generally after all the valuables that can be carried away are secured and a few persons, men or women, are taken to be held for ransom the final act is to set fire to the villages.

We were recently in a very large market town where, although the robbers had not been within 25 miles, yet the principal shops had the doors locked and their treasure hid and preparations made to escape over the back walls of their yards. At another place where one of the regular markets was being visited by hundreds of people a rumor arose that the brigands were not far away and in a few moments the streets of that town were empty though as a matter of fact the brigands were far away. This fear in the hearts of so many of the people is most pitiful as they all seem so utterly helpless.
No one suggests organization for the protection of their property and the few soldiers have accomplished but little.

Another trouble facing the people is the drought. No rain has fallen for two months and the ground is hard as a floor. This makes it almost impossible to harvest the crops of peanuts and sweet potatoes. Generally the fields must be flooded before it is possible to dig these crops or plow the land for wheat planting.

When this flooding of the land requires the drawing of the water by windmills with man power or occasionally with an animal it may be understood what the difficulties are.
The poor people in the country fighting these difficulties in order to get a crust to eat and their government officials sallow off the country piece by piece, the whole is a situation that is far from hopeful. One great joy in seeing the end of the big war approaching is that it will give disinterested friends of China an opportunity to lend a helping hand before it is too late.

The Anniversary of October 10 was observed by the students in the Methodist schools of this city who assembled for a little celebration of song and speeches. It is not easy for the eagle to scream very loud in a land where the conditions are as they are now in China.

Memorial For Mrs. Fitch

A memorial service was held yesterday in honor of Mrs. George F.
Fitch in the Martyrs' Memorial Hall, Y.M.C.A. More than 800 Chinese and foreign friends attended. Interment took place later in the Tahsienjao Cemetery. The Rev. D.
W. Lyon of the Y.M.C.A. officiated both at the Memorial service and at the graveside.

At the memorial service the principal speakers were the Rev.
Douglas Mackintosh and Pastor Chang Pao-chu of the Presbyterian Church, Peking Road. Both spoke in glowing terms of the great life work of Mrs. Fitch through the church, in the Chinese homes and by her literary work.

The Rev. Charles E. Darwent and the Rev. Li Hung-chung said prayers. Miss Duncan gave a vocal solo. The pallbearers were the Rev.
K. T. Yui, Deacon S. L. Yi, Elders D. S. Fong, Y. C. Bau and H. T.
Wang and Mr. S. K. Woo.

The peace policy of the present Administration will be announced in a declaration to be made soon by the Cabinet. The issuance of the declaration was decided upon at a joint meeting of the Presidential Office and the Cabinet Monday. It is understood that, for the present, the suggested solution will be one of political nature and not a legal one. Individual questions concerning Hunan, Szechuen and Kwangtung will be dealt with. As soon as these are settled, then the question of the Constitution will be taken up.

captain and Mr. A. M. A. Hansen, Vice-Captain. Mr. H. J. Cooper was congratulated for his services as the Club's representative at league meetings and also as secretary for football matters in accepting this position again. He is to be supported by Mr. F. Madar as assistant and the latter will endeavor to further the interest in second eleven games.

Prior to closing the meeting, Mr. Veitch informed those present that Dicky Brandt had definitely decided to retire from the football field and in consideration of the yeoman services he had so always willingly offered to the Club for over 20 consecutive years it would be most fitting that the secretary be instructed to place the Club's deepest appreciation on record.

The Chairman, in seconding this resolution, said that it was hardly necessary for him to dwell on the qualities of "Dicky" as a footballer for wherever he was playing the fans would surely go. He hoped, however, that "Dicky" would yet figure in some future games. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the chair.

GERMAN STATUE IN N.Y. TO BECOME BELGIAN

Lady On Custom House To Be Shorn Of Valkyrian Helmet And Insignia

New York, September 15.—The marble lady with the Valkyrian helmet who represents Germany among the twelve statues above the main cornice of the New York Custom House is going to be surrounded by a scaffolding soon. When the scaffolding is taken away the lady will still be there, but, by virtue of a sculptor's touch here and there she will no longer be Germania, but Belgium.

William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury, has authorized Cass Gilbert, architect of the Custom House, to remove all German insignia from the statue and substitute the insignia of Belgium. Mr. Gilbert made this announcement yesterday and also said:

"The president of the National Sculpture Society has been asked to act in an advisory capacity as to these modifications and they will be made as soon as possible. The insignia referred to are scarcely noticeable from the street, but be that as it may the changes will be made promptly."

Symbolized Last Of Kaisers
Following the consignment to the Army War College cellar, by direction of the War Department last spring, of the statue of Frederick the Great which the present Kaiser presented to the United States in 1904, protests were sent to Washington against the continued exhibition of other German figures in public places. Among these was mentioned the Custom House "Germany."

A dozen years ago, when the row of statues on the Custom House, representing the ancient and modern nations which have had important commerce at sea, was unveiled, Albert Jaegers' "Germany" was highly praised. The Teutonic lady wears a coat of mail partly covered with a leather doublet embossed on the breast with the imperial eagle. Her left hand rests upon a shield whereon a dolphin disports between the word "Kiel" and the monogram "W. II." meaning (although nobody knew it then), the last of the Hohenzollerns.

Will Wear War Bonnet
The German eagle will be replaced by the shield of Belgium. Instead of the winged Valkyrian helmet the goddess will wear the Belgian army helmet, 1918 style, with appropriate modifications. "Kiel" and the Emperor's initial and number will be erased altogether, and on the shield will be substituted the one word "Belgium." As to the fate of the dolphin no intimation has been given, but if he belongs peculiarly to the Kaiser's aquarium he is sure to disappear. The features and posture of the figure will not be altered.

Albert Jaegers was born in Germany in 1868, but was brought by his father to the United States before he became of age, and is an American citizen. He has executed many works of art and long before the war was decorated by the German Emperor. At the request of the United States Government he erected the statue of Gen. von Steuben in Washington and also made the replica of the statue presented to the Kaiser by Congress. He lives in Suffern, N. Y.

IMPARTIAL AND PROGRESSIVE SHANGHAI, OCTOBER 22, 1918

Lord Milner's Views

IN last Sunday's issue of THE CHINA PRESS there was published a Reuter's resume of an interview which a representative of the London Evening Standard had with Lord Milner, in the course of which the startling doctrine was advanced that the Allies must not "dictate drastic changes in the German Government or the condition of the new government too hastily." He declared that "a complete transformation of that government was now in progress and it was in the interests of the Allies to see a stable government maintained in Germany.
As reparation must be obtained, we don't want Bolshevism rampant there."

When Lord Milner deprecates the "attempts to dictate drastic changes in the German Government," etc., he ranges himself in direct opposition to President Wilson and the Governments associated with the United States in this war. Lord Milner's contention that he believes the German people to be equally as anxious as the Allies to see the complete and ignominious defeat of militarism may or may not be true, although there are no tangible indications of such a change of heart on the part of the German people, but we do not think that Lord Milner's theory will bear the searchlight of an analytical examination.

If a man had cruelly knocked you down and robbed you of a sum of money and you subsequently were able to effect his arrest and he offered to repay the money in consideration of your withdrawing the prosecution, would you do it? Besides, to accept repayment of stolen money and to allow the criminal to go free is, in law, what is known as compounding a felony, and you should yourself be liable to a criminal prosecution. We think the Allied people wish to see Germany punished for her crimes.

March Tells How General Staff Thinks For The Army

By William Atherton Du Py

I wanted to find the very heart of the circulatory system of the great war, the center of the web that is spinning itself to marshal the force of the nation against the Hun, the fountain source of matters military and matters industrial which support the military. I thought the tangled skein must somewhere pull itself into a knot, which bound all the threads.

And all lanes led to General Peyton Conway March, Chief of the General Staff of the Army. As the board of directors is the body in authority in a corporation, so does the General Staff manage world wars. As the chairman of a board of directors presides over it and has to do with its destinies, so does the Chief of Staff preside over the General Staff. But his position is one of more authority than that of the chairman of the board because he chooses his staff instead of their choosing him.

The Chief of Staff has offices in the State, War and Navy Building in Washington. This huge structure sits on the left hand of the White House, while the Treasury Department sits on the right. Architects from all over the world come to admire the classic columns of the Treasury, but the State, War and Navy Building, they say, is an architectural monstrosity.

Home Of Vital Departments

But it is a huge structure and the home of the three most vital departments of the Government concerned in fighting the war.

The east wing is given over to the Secretary of the Navy, the south side to the Secretary of State and the west part to the Secretary of War.
On the second floor on the west side of the building, just at the middle, sits the Secretary of War.
On his left is Benedict Crowell, first president, who is the war's industrial manager. On the right is General March, surrounded by his staff, the brain of the war machine, the man in the midst of the web, which responds to the slightest touch to any of its network, the spinning of which reaches to the various and sundry ends of the earth.

When I wanted to interview General March I must first see Marlen E. Pew, a sort of super-newspaperman who stands between Secretary Baker and the press. Mr. Pew must convince General March that my mission was legitimate and worth while before I could hope to take up time which might otherwise be devoted to winning the war. He did so, and one afternoon at 4 o'clock I went in to talk with the chief of staff.

Twinkle In His Eye

A grayish man with a quizzical twinkle in his eye smiled in a winning fashion at me over one of the broadest topped desks in the world.
My first impression was that General March was a happy man, that he had a pleasing idea in the back of his head. I wondered what it was and later found out. He said to me:

"I have just been stating in conference that there seemed no reason to doubt we would have four million men in France next year. And I may add there is not sufficient force in the German Empire to stop four million American soldiers."

The Chief of Staff always radiates confidence. Twice a week he appears before the newspaper men who report the progress of war from the standpoint of the department and sets forth the situation. In short, terse sentences he tells an unornam-ented story of just what has happened. He tells it logically, completely, pauses just the right length of time for the men who are making notes, spells the French words.
He is a thorough man, doing his piece of his task well. But his talk always has the forward push to it, leaves the impression of carrying on, radiates confidence.

I told him I thought the men on the street had little idea of what the General Staff was. Would he give me a bit of a picture of how it worked? This is what he told me:

"The Chief of Staff is the immediate adviser of the Secretary of War upon all matters relating to the military establishment, and is charged by the Secretary of War with the planning and development of the army program in its entirety.
Thinking For The Army

This means that the General Staff must do the thinking for the army. I may illustrate this by taking a recent example, that of the draft law to include all men from eighteen to forty-five. When the General Staff had figured out the number of men needed to make victory certain, it sought the most advisable means of getting those men. It considered all such elements as that of maintaining production. It drew its plan.

"This plan was submitted to the Secretary of War. It met with his approval and went to the President.
It was approved by the President as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and submitted to Congress with the recommendation that the necessary law to carry it out be passed.

"Such is one part of the work of the General Staff. The planning of the army program in its entirety, the constant development of its larger aspects, the determination of such a matter as that which was this summer accomplished of increasing the transportation of troops from 100,000 a month to 300,000 a month is a General Staff task."

"The work of the General Staff has been completely reorganised within the last few months. As at present constituted, it has the intelligence division, the war plans division and the division of purchase, storage and traffic.

"One of the most vital and fundamental of these is the intelligence division. The first endeavor of the General Staff is to know the facts.
In times of peace the General Staff has had its military intelligence representatives all over the world. In time of war there is an additional occasion for activity on the part of intelligence officers, not only in ascertaining the facts with relation to the forces of the enemy, but in protecting the United States from the enemy agents.

Vladivostok An Example

"A good example of the work of this division was furnished when we sent our recent expedition to Vladivostok. A group of intelligence officers accompanied that expedition. They took with them all the information in the possession of the intelligence division with relation to the situation in the Far East. All the facts that have been gathered during the last generation were sorted out and arranged.

"Most exact topographical maps, for instance, are an important part of such information. Railroads and other arteries of communication are vital. With relation to these, there is the necessity of keeping the information up to date. The intelligence division tries to know what bridges have been blown up on Russian railroads and where trains may be operated today. That is its business.

"These intelligence officers who went to Siberia must make all this information available. They must then fit themselves into the intelligence machine of the Far East and add to that information as industri-ously as possible—must keep it up to date. It is upon such information that campaigns are fought and the intelligence division of the General Staff gets the information.

Draw Organisation Plans

"Colonel Marlborough Churchill is now head of the intelligence division.

"The war plans division logically follows the intelligence division. It is this division which digests the facts from all sources and converts them into plans. The director of the war plans division is president of the War College. In time of peace he operates a school which teaches men the refinements of war.
But now that war is on there is no time for going to school. Every officer who knows enough to teach is burning midnight oil that he may lend his accomplishments to the actual fighting.

"These men draw the plans for the organization of the army, including the quantities and types of equipment. They supervise the research and invention that lends new instruments to the war machine. They were the men who worked out that plan of training all these youngsters who have come into the army in the last year and a half, a training intended to induce a physical fitness, a morale and a skill that would be effective when they get into the conflict. Of late the French and British have been talking a good deal about the quality of soldier this American training has produced.
Now the Germans are beginning to talk about it."

The chief of staff smiled again in evidence of an inward delight that seemed to possess him in contemplating the work of the American soldier abroad.

"It is this division of plans also which prepares the facts with relation to proposed legislation for submission to Congress and which prepares the rules for the military establishment.

"Brigadier General Lythe Brown is the president of the War College and the director of the war plans division.

Set Number In Draft

"The division of operations, under

Brigadier-General Henry Jervey, is well defined by its name. He is in charge of the number of men to be drafted and the mobilization, the personnel. He says what troops go to France and in what order. He keeps his finger on the army posts, the cantonments, the hospitals, has to do with that billion and a quarter that is being spent by the army in buildings.

"Finally, under Major-General George W. Goethals, is the division of purchase, storage and traffic.
This is the division which has the stupendous task of procuring the supplies for millions of men, warehousing them, insuring the constant presence of an abundance transporting both men and supplies overseas.
This is one of the most complicated tasks of the war.

"So does it appear that the General Staff is assigned that task of doing the thinking for the army. As Chief of Staff I am the personal adviser of the Secretary. The divisions of the General Staff produce all the facts. When I go to the Secretary I am possessed of all that the world knows about the subject in hand. It forms a good basis upon which to proceed.

Does Not Control Battles

"The War Department General Staff makes plans, but does not control the battle in France. It is not in the province of the General Staff to determine whether the newly organised American army should drive into the Rhine Valley on attack at Verdun. That determination lies with General Poch. When General Poch has determined the use he would like to make of the American army, it is then the duty of the General Staff of the American Expeditionary Force to direct the method of that fighting, under the leadership of General Pershing. He relies upon his General Staff to carry out his decisions.

"As the whole army has its staff, so have the various units. General Pershing has with him a staff organised on the general plan of the War Department General Staff. They supplement General Pershing just as the General Staff aids the President as Commander-in-Chief.

"The same is true of army corps, of divisions. Each such organisation has its staff officers upon which to lean.
"Infinite care is exercised in the selection of the members of the General Staff. They are chosen by a special board appointed for the purpose. These men are looked in a room and proceed to their tasks with no other guide than the records of the officers in the army. These records are very voluminous. An officer's record is the true picture of what he has done, and therefore of what he has proven to be his abilities. The officer of best proven ability gets the post."

The chief of staff agreed, at my suggestion, that they were "a hand-picked bunch."

I asked him if they were all West Pointers. He protested and said:
"They most assuredly are not.
We now have men on the general staff from many walks of life. In our view the distinction between regular army men and others has disappeared. There are today but 2,000 West Pointers in the army, while there are 145,000 officers. The West Point graduates have been so diluted as to be hard to find. It is just as it has been with the old regular army. It has been swallowed up in the greater army. We have now established a policy, which causes all distinctions to disappear and every man to stand forth as a member of one army."

A man of very exact expression, with no verbal trimmings, is General March. I heard him describe the battle of Chateau-Thierry in three sentences. He said:

"As soon as the German advance had been brought to a standstill along the Marne east of Chateau-Thierry, Foch struck hard along the western side of the salient. The front over which we advanced was twenty-two miles and the maximum penetration so far reported has been to a depth of ten miles. We have nothing to indicate how costly our casualty lists are."

Refused To Yield A Foot

The nearest to enthusiasm I have ever seen the General come, with the exception of the one theme of the American fighting man, was when he described General Gouraud, who held the salient beyond Rheims and refused to yield a foot. He said:

"The Champagne district is under the command of General Gouraud, of the French army. Gouraud is one of the most striking personalities in France among the army commanders. He is a man about fifty years of age, erect and soldierly.
He has been in action all over the world and has on his sleeve five bleu stripes (wound chevrons), which means he has been wounded five times. Several of the wounds were of such a character that he was absolutely shot up. He has lost one arm, and a man of less determination and force could never have survived. The French call him 'Tres soldat'—'Every inch a soldier.' He is a man of such determination and force that in any German drive against his troops his men will be inspired by his presence to die where they are."

General March is fifty-three years old. While his hair and Vandyke beard are nearly white, he does not otherwise show his age. His face is not weather-beaten or deep lined.
He has the large, somewhat fleshy nose seen in the pictures of George Washington, from whose family he is descended. There must be Irish back of the twinkle and quizzical look in his eyes. The Conways were probably Irish, and there is where he got his middle name. But most of him is probably of English extraction.

Built Like A Soldier

He is built along soldierly lines, for he is over six feet and of slender proportions. He could probably still wear the suit in which he graduated from West Point in '88, two years behind General Pershing. He has not put on flesh with age.

The chief comes of an intellectual family. His father was a college professor. The family home was located in the shadow of Lafayette College, at Easton, Pa., and the elder March taught there. Peyton C. went to Lafayette and graduated before he went to West Point.

General March came to the general staff through the field artillery route. He had been ten years out of West Point when the Spanish-American War came. In that brief conflict he commanded the battery presented to the Government by John Jacob Astor. He participated in the capture of Manila and served in the campaigns of pacification that followed, being brevetted for gallantry in action. He had a hand in that strange task of administration which falls to the lot of army officers who serve as provisional governors.

Through the Russo-Japanese War General March was at the front as an observer, saw much of the fighting and learned much which has since been of value to the American army. While he was in that far-away spot Mrs. March died, introducing the element of tragedy into the soldier's life, an element which reappeared last Spring when he lost a son in aviation.

The chief of staff was with General Pershing on the Mexican border.
When the latter was given command of the American Expeditionary Force General March went along as his chief of artillery. In that first eight months of the presence of the expeditionary force in France its staff officers studied this new game with a feverish activity. March, the intellectual, absorbed much of it.
When a man was to be chosen for the deepest thinking part in the whole game he seemed to be sitting in the Studebaker seat.

What Germany Is Talking About

(Extracts from German newspapers dated late in August, reproduced from The Daily Mail)

In its latest frantic appeal to Germans to "keep a stiff upper lip," the semi-official Cölogne Gazette (in a leading article telegraphed yesterday from Amsterdam) shrieked that if the Huns lose the war "every single one of us, whatever our rank or profession, should have to dig and slave for foreign lands." A few days before this lugubrious vision of Germany in defeat Herr Hoff, a well-known Radical parliamentarian, wrote in the Berliner Tageblatt what it will mean to the Huns if they are compelled to make amends for their war crimes in money. He said:

"Let us cast our minds back to the days before the war. In 1913 we exported to foreign countries manufactured products to a value of £319,800,000, and imported £78,900,- 000 worth. That is to say we sold nearly £25,000,000 more than we bought. We imported about £175,- 000,000 more of raw materials than we exported.

Indemnity Means Bankruptcy
"Now, supposing we have to pay our enemies an indemnity of £5,- 000,000,000. That would mean our having to find something like £325,- 000,000 for interest and amortisation charges. It would mean that we should have to sell our entire surplus of manufactured goods without getting anything at all for them, while we could not pay for our required £250,000,000 of raw materials at all. They simply would not be sent into the country. What would be the result? Within a year at the outside the whole German economic machine would come to a standstill.
And where there is nothing, there even the rights of the Kaiser cease to exist!"

Another Food Failure

Amid the wailing and gnashing of teeth over the continuous bad news from the west, the Huns are sorrowfully bemoaning the collapse of their latest food hope from the east. This concerned the prospective arrival of $60,000 fat geese from Poland and other occupied districts of Russia. The Germans are tremendous goose-eaters. In peace times they devoured millions of geese from those regions. Some time ago, when

Gompers At Derby

He Wrestles With British Labor And Scores A Strong Point At The End

By Arthur S. Draper
Derby, England, September 6.— There was little excitement yesterday at the session of the Trades Union Congress. Mr. Bowen, president of the Bricklayers' Union; Samuel Gompers and Arthur Henderson held the center of the stage. Instead of the lively discussion of the war aims expected, the session proved as tranquil as a midsummer day.

Having registered their views on the war the British delegates settled back and listened attentively and politely to the American representatives. There was no enthusiasm for Mr. Gompers' political views, but when he said that Americans and descendants of the Pilgrims had come to fight by the side of Englishmen the statement aroused great cheers.

It seemed clear that Mr. Gompers had been impressed by the position British labor took yesterday and had no intention of entering the discussion regarding peace.

Mr. Bowen, who spoke first, said that the American viewpoint must not be considered a reflection on anything British labor had done or intended to do. He said that nothing would turn aside American labor in its determination to see the war through to a victorious finish.

Merely As To Victory's Technique
Mr. Henderson, who followed Mr.
Gompers, said that American and British labor agreed that Prussian militarism must be overthrown, and the only difference, if there was any, was as to methods. British labor, he declared, intended to see militarism overthrown everywhere. He declared that British labor was against an economic boycott for the crushing of Germany and anything which would lead to other wars.

Most of Mr. Gompers' speech was devoted to an explanation of the tardiness of America's entry into the war and the position of organized labor in America toward it. American workers, he said, were not organized as idealists, but as wage earners. One of the striking sentences he used was, "A blood-red line through Europe divided freedom from oppression."

Once he alluded to the fact that in America labor separates industrial from political ends.

British Labor Is Political

This furnished a topic for Mr.
Henderson, who said that industrial and political objectives of British labor went side by side, and that British labor was interested not only in national but in international questions arising out of the war. Mr. Gompers made a long speech and so did Mr.
Henderson, but when the session adjourned the attitude of the congress was unchanged. There was nothing dramatic or startling in the announcements. The congress was as calm and orderly as a mothers' meeting. It presented a gold watch to Mr.
Bowen and two old silver plates to Mr. Gompers.

During the presentation Mr. Gompers said that if British and American labor could not agree about all war aims they must agree to disagree.
To this Mr. Henderson replied that he ventured to say there would be few points of disagreement by the time of the inter-Allied conference in London, a fortnight hence.

Both the American delegates repeatedly expressed the fact that there was unity between the workers of American and President Wilson. As British labor also supports President Wilson this point went home.

Primitive Degrees And Methods A resolution calling for the punishment of those responsible for the outrages at sea and an economic boycott of Germany for five years after the war aroused a considerable amount of spirited debate, in which many delegates participated. Mr.
Thomas, of the railway men; Mr.
Smille, of the miners, and Mr. Wilson, of the seamen, had several sharp passages at arms and for a time the congress was in an uproar.

While practically every speaker unqualifiedly condemned the perpetrators of these outrages, they differed as to the degree and method of punishment. A few believed the boycott a satisfactory method. Finally a card vote was taken and the resolution shelved by a vote of 284,500 against 49,300.

A Fatal Mistake

Mr. Petty hurried into the office an hour later than usual and was relieved to find that his employer was late also.

"Pretty good!" laughed Mr. Petty to his assistant. "He will never know that I was late."

When the head of the firm came in he scrutinized Mr. Petty long and closely, then leaned casually against the desk.

"Your session at the bowling alley was prolonged last night," he began.
"How do you know?" asked Mr.
Petty, opening his eyes very wide.

"I infer it from your stiff manner of handling the ledger this morning," replied the head of the firm severely.
"You exerted yourself more than usual on the alleys. At breakfast this morning you were so drowsy from want of sleep that you dozed over your morning paper."

"So I did," admitted Mr. Petty, un-comfortably.

"I know it was as breakfast, because there is egg and coffee on the paper," frowned the head of the firm.
"And while you were asleep your little six-year-old son climbed into your lap."

"Yes, he did," gasped Mr. Petty.
"But—"

"How do I know?" interrupted the head of the firm. "I know because your collar is written over in a child's scrawl. It is done in the peculiar shade of lead that you had in your gold lead pencil, which is usually in your left hand vest pocket. It is not there now. I hope that the boy has not lost it."

Mr. Petty felt for his lead pencil.
"It is gone," gasped Mr. Petty.
"You were late to work this morning" went on the head of the firm, coldly. "I do not have to be told so, because you bought an evening edition of the paper at the subway station and it is an edition that does not come out until a late hour. I am very particular about the hours of work observed here."

As the head of the firm was finally disappearing into his private office Mr. Petty wiped the perspiration from his brow and remarked to the assistant:

"We were all against giving him a watch for his birthday because he is always watching the time, but we made a great mistake to give him the detective stories instead."—New York

The Difference

(From the Independent)

William of Germany has bestowed his five sons on the German army.
All enjoy good health in the rear of the front lines.

Theodore Roosevelt has given his four sons to his country. One has been gloriously killed in action. Two lie wounded in the hospitals in France.

Desperation In The Old Bourbon State

(From The Jassamine News)

Bob Steele was arrested, charged with tapping a barrel of whiskey in transit from Camp Nelson distilleries, and was tried before the County Judge. It is said that the defendant had secured a half gallon by using a gimlet when the driver of the motor truck nabbed him.

was to forage in Russia for the Huns' favorite fowl.

Instead of the 800,000 geese which the company promised to deliver in time to make amends for meatless weeks, it is now announced that only 50,000 have thus far arrived. Dealers throughout the country who had booked large advance orders have been notified that they can be filled to only a very modest degree. Geese imports from the Ukraine prove equally disappointing. The Food Ministry has fixed a maximum price of £1 for geese, irrespective of weight.

Germany's latest pirate hero is the

Departed Glory

The once world-famed Leipzig Autumn Trade Fair, which used to be attended by thousands of buyers from all quarters of the globe, was opened on August 25. How its former glories have withered is shown by the loudly advertised announcement that foreign customers in attendance consist of "600 Poles, 200 Bulgarians, 300 Dutchmen, and 250 Swiss." The German Government provided a special train from Holland for the Dutch.

The Awakening

Scales are falling from a few eyes in Germany, it seems. A judge of the High Court of Saxe-Meiningen has just been sentenced to a month's imprisonment for lese-majeste. He uttered his real opinion about the reigning duke and other German royalties.

Mylic Launched, Biggest Chinese-Built Steamer

Madame Lu Christens Ship Built By Nicolas Tsu Engineering Works

The largest steamer built in a Chinese shipyard, the Mylic, constructed for the Hanchow Steamship Company by the Nicolas Tsu Engineering and Shipbuilding Works, was launched at the Hanchow Yard, Avenue de Bezaure, yesterday afternoon.

The Mylic was christened by the wife of General Lu, Yung-hsian, Defense Commissioner of Shanghai, and slid down the ways an hour and 40 minutes after the scheduled time because of the high tide.

Following the launching a reception was given by the Nicolas Tsu Company at which General Lu, Messrs. W. S. Jackson, Louis Tsu, son of the builder, W. A. C. Platt and Ko De-sang of the Hanchow Steamship Company spoke.

General Lu saw in the launching of the Mylic an opportunity for the flag of China to travel the seven seas. "The work of this Chinese company should be an inspiration to all Chinese," he said.

Mr. Platt and Mr. Louis Tsu spoke for Mr. Nicolas Tsu, who was unable to attend the launching because of illness. Both expressed their appreciation of the help given by British experts who designed the steamer and engines.

Mr. W. S. Jackson, on behalf of the Hanchow Steamship Company, owners, said:

"I have been requested by my friend, Mr. Ko De-sang, to respond to the toast proposed by Mr. Platt.

"I am sorry Mr. Ko De-sang could not be persuaded to reply himself, for, knowing him as I do, I am sure he would have done it remarkably well for he is a man who does well and thoroughly everything he undertakes. He is what I would describe as a progressive Chinaman with great ability and big ideas and a man his countrymen may well be proud of.

"On behalf of Mr. Ko De-sang and the Hanchow Steamship Company, I have great pleasure in congratulating Mr. Nicolas Tsu on having successfully built the splendid vessel you have just seen launched, a vessel with a carrying capacity of 3,150 tons besides passenger accommodations, and by far the largest vessel ever attempted to be built by Chinese shipbuilders. The same remarks apply to Mr. Nicolas Tsu as I applied to Mr. Ko De-sang for he is also a man of great progressive ability. Such men do much good for China and it is to be regretted there are not more like them.

"While Mr. Nicolas Tsu has been responsible for the building of this fine vessel, his success has been largely due to Mr. Simmons for having designed the vessel, Mr. Rietley for having designed the engines and Mr. Bayes-Davey for supervision and general assistance.

"So long as Mr. Nicolas Tsu is content to be guided and assisted by these British experts, who are all willing to give him a helping hand, there is no reason why he should not be able to build vessels up to 5,000 tons and I hope his yard will always be full from now on with such vessels on the stocks but I would strongly recommend Mr. Nicolas Tsu to follow in the footsteps of the Japanese shipbuilders, who called in foreign advice and assistance for many years before they were sufficiently accomplished and experienced to safely discard that foreign assistance.

"It is pleasing to think of the great progress this Chinese shipbuilding yard has made and also to remember that it is helping to lessen the scarcity of tonnage today.

The Mylic is a 3,500-tonner with a loaded displacement of 4,500 tons, is 260 feet long, 40 feet wide and has a moulded depth of 25 feet, three inches. The hull was designed by Mr. R. Simmons. The steamer will be driven by triple expansion engines indicating 1,300 horse-power and will speed ten knots. The engines were designed by Mr. P. C. Rietley. The Mylic was built under the general supervision of Mr. S. Bayes-Davey and will be ready for the Saigon-Singapore-Rangoon run early in January. A sister ship, the Gwenneth, will be completed a month later. Both steamers are named after the daughters of Mr. Bayes-Davey.

The steamer is to be equipped with the latest devices for handling cargo and accommodations for 35, first-class, 50 second-class and 400 third-class passengers.

CZECHO-SLAVS FIGHTING AGAINST HEAVY ODDS

Forces Split Up Into Numerous Units In Order To Hold More Points

Vladivostok, October 22.—According to the latest staff reports the Czecho-Slovaks continue fighting on the Volga and Urals fronts against ever-increasing odds. Their forces are being split up into numerous units with the object of holding as many points as possible. The whole of the operations in these zones are now of the nature of guerrilla warfare.

M. Regnault, the French High Commissioner, and his staff have left for Omsk.

The conflict between Hetman Kalmikoff and Butenko, the Commander of the Russian forces in the Maritime Province, is reaching an acute stage. The press today prints a letter from Hetman Kalmikoff breathing open defiance of General Butenko and spurning his authority.

Harbin, October 21.—M. Volodgsky, the Premier of the Omsk Government, has arrived in Omsk.

The rumors of serious disagreements among the political parties and numerous arrests appear to have been somewhat exaggerated.

General Ivanoff Rinnoff, the Minister of War in the Siberian Government, is leaving for Vladivostok tonight after a banquet in his honor at the residence of General Horvath. The latter intends to remain in Harbin for a few days.

Reuters' correspondent gathers the impression that General Ivanoff Rinnoff is a man of great energy who will not be afraid to take most drastic action if the circumstances should require. His program is the same as that of General Horvath and it is understood that they have already come to a final and most successful agreement.

ASSYRIAN MINISTER WILL LECTURE HERE

The Rev. M. G. Daniel To Tell Of Massacres By Turks And Germans

Massacres of Christians in Turkey, Armenia, Assyria, Persia and Caucasus will be described by an eye-witness, the Rev. M. G. Daniel, in a series of lectures to be given here.

Dr. Daniel will lecture at the Y.M.C.A. tomorrow and Friday afternoons at five o'clock, at the Papyrus Club Sunday under the auspices of the Japanese Y.M.C.A. and at the Missionary prayer meeting at the Union Church Monday afternoon. He will preach at Holy Trinity Cathedral Sunday morning, November 3.

Dr. Daniel comes here in the interests of refugees from the countries on their way to America and the 250,000 Assyrians now encamped at Teheran, Persia.

Fine Ribbed Smoked Sheet 2 1/4 d. Catalogued for sale 3,148,872 lbs. (about 1,406 tons).

Sold 1,063,354 lbs. (about 475 tons).

Since our last report the market has remained fairly steady with only slight fluctuations. News as to the allocation of rubber for America for the last quarter of the year was awaited with great interest, and it was generally believed that it would be higher than during the previous period. However, according to a telegram received on the 1st instant from the Rubber Association of America, New York, by the local Overseas Consulate, there is no change in the quantity allowed to be imported into U.S.A. during the next three months. The telegram runs as follows: "Allocation October-December 25,000 tons 75 percent of rubber from any country 25 percent limited to rubber from Central America and South America."

In consequence of this news our auction opened this morning rather dull, and when the market was eventually established the interest of the buyers was centered in the Standard grades.

Fine Ribbed Smoked Sheet sold in the morning from 47 to 45 1/2 cents, but dropped in the afternoon about 1 cent, the average for the day being 45 1/2 cents.

Fine Pale was slightly steadier and sold throughout the day between 46 1/4 and 45 cents. The top-price mark no change on the week as regards Fine Ribbed Smoked Sheet, whereas Fine Pale Crope is 1/2 cent lower.

Very little interest was taken in Good Ribbed Smoked Sheet which declined 3-4 cents, while Good Pale Crope declined on an average 2-3 cents.

One lot only of Unsmoked Sheet changed hands.

Fine and Good Brown Crepes met with a fair demand at a decline of about 2 cents. Good Dark Crepes were also wanted at a similar reduction, while lower Crepes were practically unsaleable.

The sale was continued this morning and lasted throughout the day. Fine Ribbed Smoked Sheet sold between 45 1/2 and 43 cents, and Fine Pale Crope between 46 and 44 1/2 cents. Other grades were generally rather cheaper than yesterday. The tendency is easy.

Sungei Duri Rubber Estate Meets

The eighth annual general meeting of the Sungei Duri Rubber Estate, Ltd., was held yesterday afternoon at the offices of the secretaries and general managers, Messrs. Meyer and Measor, 6 Yuen Ming Yuen Road, Mr. Hugo Reiss occupied the chair and there were also present Mr. N. G. Matland and Pere P. Sallou, directors, and shareholders representing 6,776 shares. The secretary having read the notice convening the meeting and the auditors' report the chairman said:

"Gentlemen: The report and accounts have been in your hands for some days and I will with your permission take them as read."

"You are all no doubt aware that the year under review has been a most trying one for all rubber companies, more particularly the Shanghai companies, and the result of our year's working under the circumstances may fairly be considered a good one. The net profit for the year, amounting to Ts. 22,824.71, undoubtedly is a large decrease as compared with the previous year, which amounted to Ts. 49,546.82, but the heavy rise in silver, combined with the low price of rubber prevailing throughout the year, naturally affected our net earnings considerably. For the year ended June 30, 1917, we had an average exchange of Ts. 69=8.5100 whereas this year our accounts have been compiled at an average rate of 54. The unsold stock of rubber is calculated at 491. From last year's accounts we brought forward the sum of Ts. 34,151.92 which added to this year's profit gives a total of Ts. 36,976.64. In dealing with this balance your directors, after careful consideration, have come to the conclusion that they would not be justified in recommending a dividend and that the welfare and safety of the company should have their first consideration. This is a time when funds should be carefully husbanded in order to meet any unforeseen contingency that may arise in the future and I therefore trust you will agree to the resolution which I will later propose in connection with the dealing of this balance, namely:

To write off Development Account 6,009.62
 To write off Buildings and Furniture 4,108.24 To write off Rubber Factory and Stores 640.81 To write off Plant and Machinery 480.04 To write off Motor Vehicle 706.75 To write off Buildings and Carts 31.08 To carry forward to next year's accounts 35,000.00 Ts. 36,976.64

"The report contains the usual full statistics of the working of the estates and there is little further that I need add. The cost of production on Sungei Duri Estate shows a fractional decrease on the figures for the previous year and the present cost of 3.34d. under present conditions is about as low as can be reasonably expected. Selama Estate shows a very gratifying reduction in the costs all round in comparison with the figures for the previous year. Last year the cost of production on this estate was 20.29d. and this has been reduced this year by 8.64d. For the coming year it is estimated to harvest our Selama crop of 155,000 lbs. at a cost of 10.27d. per lb. while on the Sungei Duri estate the cost for harvesting 115,000 lbs. is estimated at 8.66d. per lb. All expenditure on Sungei Duri has been charged to revenue and on Selama the apportionment has been 85 percent to revenue and 15 percent to capital."

"The area under cultivation on Sungei Duri Estate remains unchanged and since the last report the area under cultivation on Selama Estate has been increased by 107 acres. A claim has been received from the Director of Lands, Kedah, with reference to an encroachment consisting of about 1 acre containing 160 trees planted in 1912 and which is included on the Boundary Reservation. The manager contends that the encroachment was mainly through a re-adjustment of boundary marks in 1914 and is therefore the fault of the Kedah Government itself. A sum of $500 has been mentioned by the land officers as premium for the right to obtain a permit to occupy this land but such a sum is thought to be excessive. Negotiations on the subject are proceeding."

"The program of extensions on Selama this year is 200 acres and this will be undertaken providing labor conditions are considered satisfactory."

Exports
 Prices of Whites show an advance on the week, and those for Blacks and Fancies are steady, but there is very little doing generally. Clearances of Blacks have improved, but these goods are not yet moving off freely."

Yarn quotations show an advance of about Ts. 2 per bale on the week."

"A Government main road, linking up with the main roads of Kedah is now in the course of construction, and will pass through the northwest corner of the company's property. It is anticipated that it will be completed during 1919."

"The Sungei Duri Estate is particularly free from diseases and pests. With regard to the Selama Estate, diseases have received a considerable amount of attention but the anxiety which occurred in the previous year has been relieved through the vigorous and unrelenting attention given. The estate, however, cannot yet be considered healthy and must for some time continue to receive the same close attention as in the past. Mr. H. C. Maching, the mycologist of the Rubber Growers' Association, visited the estate and his reports were of a very reassuring nature."

"The whole of our No. 1 latex has been manufactured into smoked sheet and a good standard was maintained throughout the year, and in this connection I would say that Sungei Duri Estate secured two first prizes at the Rubber Exhibition at Bukit Mertajam in 'Our Day' exhibition, one for the best exhibit in the competition and the other for the best exhibit of No. 1 smoked sheet."

"Our crop from both estates for the year amounted to 250,815 lbs., being slightly over 22,000 lbs. above the estimate. The average selling price of all grades for the year was 17.73d. per lb. With the exception of a contract for 1 1/2 tons monthly which expired last December, our rubber was sold throughout the year at the Singapore auctions. No forward sales have been made for the current year."

"Before concluding I would like to take this opportunity of saying that we enjoy the advantage of retaining the services of our two capable managers, Messrs. Adair and Deleux, whose work throughout the year has given every satisfaction, and also to record our appreciation of the Penang agents and our secretaries and general managers."

"Before putting the various resolutions to the meeting, I shall be pleased to answer any questions that shareholders may wish to ask."

No questions were put and the following resolutions were unanimously passed:

That the report and accounts for the year ended June 30, 1918, as presented and circulated be passed—Proposed by Mr. Hugo Reiss; seconded by Mr. N. G. Matland.

That the balance standing at the credit of profit and loss account, v. z. Ts. 36,976.64 be disposed as proposed in the report—Proposed by Mr. Hugo Reiss; seconded by Mr. N. G. Matland.

That Mr. Hugo Reiss be re-elected director of the company—Proposed by Mr. N. G. Matland; seconded by Mr. E. S. Ling.

That Mr. E. A. Measor be re-elected a director of the company—Proposed by Mr. E. S. Ling; seconded by Mr. E. S. Ling.
